RWF PROJECT JOURNEY

Plans Approved

From Vision to a Build-Ready Community

A clearer map. A stronger foundation. A build-ready direction.

1. From Vision to Real Design

What started as a conversation among women has now been translated into a real, structured development plan.

We are building:

- A secure gated community
- Approximately 50 standalone homes (3-4 bedrooms)
- A daycare to support working mothers
- A community library
- A small convenience retail space
- Safe play areas for children
- Future potential for a school nearby or in partnership
- Long-term vision: gas station (separate phase and approvals)

This is no longer just an idea. It is something that can be designed, measured, and built.

2. Land Strategy & Timeline

We are in the process of identifying land that allows us to build this vision properly.

The land must:

- Support residential development (or allow rezoning)
- Be located in a safe, stable area
- Be accessible to schools, transport, and services
- Support long-term infrastructure (water, electricity, sewer)

Timeline:

We are working within a 12-18 month window to secure the right land — not just any land.

Because where we build matters just as much as what we build.

3. Feasibility: Making Sure It Can Be Built

Before anything is approved, we must confirm that the land can actually support the community.

This includes:

- Soil testing (can houses be safely built?)
- Environmental assessments
- Access to roads and transport
- Availability of water, sewer, and electricity

This stage protects us from costly mistakes later.

4. The Master Development Plan

A full layout is created showing:

- Where each home will sit
- How roads will flow through the estate
- Where the security gate will be placed
- Where the daycare, retail space, and green areas will be
- Space for children to play safely

This plan allows everyone — including government and partners — to clearly see what we are building.

5. The Professional Team Behind the Project

To move from vision to reality, we are working with qualified professionals:

- Town planners (zoning and approvals)
- Architects (home and community design)
- Civil engineers (roads, sewer, drainage)
- Electrical engineers (powersystems)

This ensures that everything we build is compliant, safe, and buildable.

6. Infrastructure & Services (The Invisible Foundation)

Before a single house is built, the foundation of the entire community must be planned:

- Water systems
- Sewer and sanitation
- Electricity supply
- Stormwater drainage
- Road access

These are the things people don't always see — but without them, nothing works.

7. Municipal Engagement & Approval Pathway

This stage includes:

- Early discussions with the municipality
- Reviewing zoning and development requirements
- Adjusting plans where needed
- Preparing for formal approvals

This ensures that when we move forward, we are doing so legally and correctly.

8. Financial Preparation (Early Stage)

Beforelandissecured, therearerealcosts involved:

- Professional fees (planners, engineers, architects)
- Feasibility studies
- Legal work
- Initial depositsandadministrativecosts

Estimated early-stage requirement:

Approximately R1M – R3M

This is part of building something real — not guessing.

9. What This Means for Women of the Land

This stage is about clarity.

It means:

- We know what we are building
- We know what it will take
- We understand the steps required
- We arepreparing properly—notrushingblindly

Progress may not always look fast, but it will always be intentional.

And that protects every woman in this project.

10. Transparency & Progress Tracking

Womenwillbeableto:

- See which stage we are in
- Understand what has been completed
- Know what is currently in progress
- Identifywhere support or connectionsmaybe needed

This is not a hidden process.

This is something we build together, openly.

What “Plans Approved” Really Means

It means:

- The vision has been translated into real plans
- The right professionals are involved
- The pathway to approval is clear
- The project is now structured and ready to move forward

We are not rushing to build something quickly.

We are building something that will last.

A place where women and their children can live safely, with space, and with dignity.
